For most of the wools offered today the sale was par to slightly in buyer's favour. Compared to the previous offering however there was a decent price correction for some of the higher coloured wools that sold to extremely good levels last week. Some of the heat in the market for lambs wool has also fallen away but so has some of the quality being offered as colours continue to rise. Oddments however bucked the trend and have continued a slow but steady recovery in price. Regards, Steve Fussell, North Island Auctioneer
